Air Transportation

This year it is our distinct privilege to introduce to our Green Book patrons, the miracle of modern travel —Air Transportation.

It is with pride therefore, that we supply for your knowledge and use the distinguished name of three reliable Air Companies in the United States, namely, Pan American World Airways, American Airlines and Trans World Airlines.

In presenting the following description of their individual services to you, we of the Green Book, earnestly urge those people with limited vacation periods to utilize and enjoy the benefits these Companies provide.

Pan American World Airways

The history of Pan American World Airways in a little less than a quarter of a century closely parallels the story

The Clipper Liberty Bell, pictured above, symbolizes the new freedom of Americans to travel abroad. It is the first and only airliner specially designed for comfortable, low fare, long-range air transportation. This Douglas Super-6, is part of a fleet of 39 better than 300 mph. Clippers purchased at a cost of $50,000,000 which Pan American will use to meet the unprecedented demand sparked by low fares. New York to London will take 13½ hours; New York to Ireland, 12 hours.

of commercial aviation itself and shows the advance from a one-plane service over the 90-mile route from Key West to Havana to a world-wide network of 60,000 route miles serving 71 countries. From the tiny beginning of the Key West-to-Havana route, Pan American has overcome the obstacle of intercontinental Air travel with a rapid growth through Latin America and eventual conquest of the Pacific and Atlantic.

Today, passenger lists of the first trans-Atlantic flights of the new low fare service show conclusively that revolution in American Vacation habits is on the way. Thrifty, medium-income Americans who had never previously thought a trans-Atlantic trip possible will soon be arriving in Europe in large numbers, thus bringing into sharp focus the social impact of the 30 percent reduction in fares, which became effective on May 1. These new low fares have made it possible for business and military men to have the companionship of their families in the foreign countries where their work has taken them.

The Company starts its services with the only planes specifically designed for comfortable, low-fare flights, the giant Super-6 Clippers with accommodations for 82 passengers. Pan American will be providing better than two a day service each way across the Atlantic with Super-6s direct to eight cities in Europe and also better than two a day on the deluxe "President" double-deck Clipper service. The round trip fare to London on the tourist service, for example, is $486 compared with $711 on the deluxe service.

For further information concerning this Company's services write, Pan American World Airways, 135 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y. or telephone MUrray Hill 6-7100.

American Airlines

American Airlines' performance in covering 72 cities, making 300 flights a day and averaging well over 9,000,000 passenger-miles daily, more than substantiates the claim describing it as, "America's Leading Airline".

Among the cities served from coast to coast are Los Angeles, San Francisco, Dallas, Tulsa, Chicago, Boston, New York and Washington. Internationally, they serve Toronto, Canada, Mexico City, and Monterrey, south of the border.

Their hourly flights from New York to Chicago and return, with the same service from New York to Boston and New York to Washington, is a special feature of interest to busy people.

On their "name" flights such as the MERCURY, American Airlines feature huge leaps across the country stopping only in Chicago, and covering the entire distance westbound in only eight hours. The AZTEC which flies New York, Washington, Dallas and Mexico City takes only ten hours on the westbound tour.

The originator of the now famous Family Fare Plan, through which a husband may fly his wife and children at half fare, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday each week, American Airlines has attracted a whole new market. Proverbial stay-at-homes are now enjoying this new kind of inexpensive travel as well as large numbers of servicemen and students.

In its first published survey of Airtourist travel, American Airlines reported that 64 percent of Airtourist passengers are vacationeers while 32 percent are on business trips and the rest travelling in answer to some urgent personal business.

The only long-distance transportation outfit in the world which handles more people than American Airlines is the Pennsylvania Railroad.

For further information concerning this Company's services write, American Airlines, 100 Park Avenue, New York 17, N. Y. or telephone Murray Hill 3-9000.

Trans World Airlines

In 1926 and 1927 three of TWA's parent companies—Western Air Express, Standard Airlines and Maddux Air Lines—flew small groups of passengers on short routes between western cities. Its more immediate predecessor company, Trans-Continental Air Transport, began the first coast to coast air passenger service in 1929. Passengers flew in Ford trimotors by day and rode the railroad at night arriving at their destination after 48 hours of travel.

The four companies became Trans-continental and Western Air Inc. (TWA's former Corporate name), on October 1, 1930. Twenty-five days later all-air service was introduced, slashing transcontinental travel time to 36 hours.

Today, TWA transports two million passengers a year, 34,400,000 cargo ton miles including mail, coast to coast. The average time reported for each trip is ten hours.

After extensive surveys of traffic potentialities and needs, TWA presented its plans for international service. The Civil Aeronautics Board, on July 5, 1945, in a decision signed by President Truman, awarded TWA and two other United States carriers routes across the Atlantic through Europe and the Middle East to the Orient. Recently, the CAB in an order just signed by the President has awarded TWA permanent rights to fly passengers and cargo from the United States to Paris and Rome by way of Ireland. In addition the CAB has given TWA a seven-year exten-

EUROPE-BOUND

Graceful and sleek, a Trans World Airlines Constellation sails along at 300-miles-an-hour clip, past the Skyscrapers of New York—bound for once-remote destinations on another continent, now accessible by air in but a few hours. TWA Constellations regularly fly back and forth across the Atlantic and across the United States, covering 32,000 miles of routes through America, the British Isles, Europe, the Middle East and India.

sion to provide transportation to all cities it previously served in Europe, North Africa, the Middle East and India, plus Kuwait and the Azores.

In the six years that it has been flying overseas, TWA has steadily increased its services and equipment and has added new cities to its routes. TWA has also become the lowest-cost trans-Atlantic operator of the United States airlines. Its fleet of 165 aircraft, including 68 four-engined Constellations, cruises 32,000 miles of airways in the United States and 17 overseas nations, serving 80 cities altogether.

Interline agreement with other carriers enable TWA to book passengers and cargo from the United States cities on a single routing to almost any other point in the world.

Noting continuous growth in its brief 26-year history, Trans World Airlines is expecting 1952 to set an all-time high in traffic volume.

For further information concerning this Company's service write, Trans World Airlines, 80 East 42nd Street, New York, N. Y. or telephone LExington 2-7100.

EXPLANATION

No travel Guide is perfect! The changing conditions as all know, contribute to this condition, particularly in the United States.

The listings in this Guide are carefully checked and, despite this, past experiences have shown that our minute inspection had failed to notice errors which would be an inconvenience to the traveller. Therefore, at this point may we emphasize that these listings are printed just as they are presented to us and we would like your cooperation and understanding, that the publishers are not responsible for miscalculations or errors after this check has been made.

We appreciate letters from you, our patrons, donating advice and addresses of places not listed herein, that would be in accord with our level. We also welcome adverse criticism, in that, it might improve our standards, and, in the end, afford more comfortable conditions for you and others.

This Guide Book is not sold on newsstands but in bookstores. They make appreciative gifts to friends and neighbors. Inasmuch as the sale of these Guide Books depend mostly upon the friend-to-friend oral advertising system, it would be particularly interesting if more of our patrons would pass the word along concerning our "Green Book".

For further information concerning this matter you may contact our agents or the publishers: Victor H. Green & Co., Leonia, N. J.

RESERVATION BUREAU

Going to take a trip, attend some convention — make sure of your accommodations before you leave.

HOUSING CONDITIONS MAKE THIS NECESSARY

Reservations for all Hotels, Tourist Homes and Vacation Resorts throughout the United States, Alaska, Mexico and Bermuda can be made for you through our Reservation Bureau.

We have contacts with all Hotels, Tourist Homes and Vacation Resorts. Send us a list of the cities that you expect to pass through, the dates wanted, how many in your party and have us make your reservations. Fees are moderate.

Louisville, Kentucky

Louisville, Kentucky

"Louisville", says the Kentucky W.P.A. guidebook of 1939, "is a border metropolis that blends the commerce and industry of a Northern city with the Southern city's enjoyment of living". It might have said that Louisville is a big, friendly town notable by outward reputation as the home of the Kentucky Derby, fine bourbon and beautiful women!

There are many miles of federal and state highways cutting through Kentucky's lovely scenes invitingly beckoning the vacation-motorist to pause, reflect and enjoy Louisville's famous charm. This city, of the colorful Bluegrass State, is blessed with a rare blend of history, progress and tradition that offers much interest to the visitor.

Louisville is situated on the left bank of the Ohio River and lies on a low level plain surrounded by low hills in the south and east. In general, Louisville is laid out in the form of the letter "T". Its top is approximately three miles wide, extending nine miles along the River and the stem projects at right angles toward the south into the residential highlands.

During the War of Independence, Virginia confiscated the territory that is now the present site of Louisville, from a British supporter, and in 1779 gave this land to Kentucky. General George Rogers Clark, established the first settlement there as an outpost against the British. It was named Louisville as a gesture of appreciation for the aid given by King Louis XVI of France to the Colonists.

The falls of the Ohio River determined the location of Louisville and contributed immensely to its early success because Nature, in her wise and providential works, was kind enough to place one of the best harbors in the entire course of River at her disposal. Here, in pioneer days the broad curve of the Ohio River above the falls, enabled upriver and downriver boats to exchange cargoes. Every kind of boat crowded the harbor and the two thousand miles of waterway between Pittsburgh and New Orleans was studded with their pride. Louisville soon assumed the character of a commercial city with the westward expansion and the increasing importance of river traffic. This river port of Kentucky's northern border became the wholesale and distributing center for a growing agricultural and mining area. The construction of the Portland Canal around the falls in 1830 brought on a temporary depression. The profitable portaging business vanished because the government system of locks and dams reduced the falls substantially. They are no longer impressive. In 1929 complete canalization ended permanently a history that made Louisville lucrative to early-day pilots, porters and towline hands.

Transportation Facilities

Since the flat boat and pack-horse days of its pioneer history, Louisville's transportation has evolved through steamboat and turnpike facilities to the present era of railway, highway, waterway, and airway transportation. Nine railroads serve the city at present namely, the Baltimore and Ohio; the New York Central; the

OHIO RIVER NEAR LOUISVILLE

Chesapeake and Ohio; the Chicago, Indianapolis, and Louisville; the Illinois Central; the Kentucky and Indiana Terminal; the Louisville and Nashville; the Southern and the Pennsylvania Railroads. The American Barge Line and the Mississippi Valley Barge Line handle freight by boat and barge on the Ohio River. Another line provides steamboat, freight and passenger service. Highway freight service is provided by 110 common carrier truck lines and passenger service by 14 motor bus lines. Federal highways serving Louisville are 31E; 31W; 42; 60 and 150. Kentucky State route 62 is an important highway giving access to Louisville from the eastern and western section of Southern Indiana. American airlines and Eastern Airlines provide passenger, mail and express service via Louisville's municipal air port. Bowman Field on the other hand, provides service from Boston to Los Angeles and from Chicago to Miami. Local air service is also provided. Intracity passenger transportation is by street and trolley bus.

Industries

Louisville is one of the largest commercial and agricultural centres in the South. It is Kentucky's biggest city and, business-wise at least, its most important. The importance of Louisville is largely characterized by the wealth of its surrounding region the principal products of which are tobacco, cereals and livestock. The leading industries, by a wide margin are the manufacture of its famed bourbon whiskey, and the manufacture of cigarettes. Whiskey is manufactured from grains grown in the good soil of Kentucky with large cooperage firms in Louisville supplying the barrels made from Kentucky white oak for the aging of its famous brew. Louisville is still one of the country's leading producers of cigarettes, although the Breaks as the market is called, has lost its former importance. Leading the South in pork-processing as well as general food-processing plants and canneries, Louisville is one of the largest meatpacking centers in the Southeastern United States. Flour-milling, the assembly of automobiles, commercial printing, and the manufacture of farm implements and machinery, leather goods, plumbers' supplies, sanitary equipment, reed organs, baseball bats, boxes, nicotine products, textiles, paints, varnishes and automobile are all part of Louisville's contribution to modern living. Additional assets to the city's economy are the various military establishments in and around Louisville, such as Fort Knox where the United States gold reserve is stored; the U. S. Quartermaster depot at Jeffersonville, Indiana and the municipal and military airfield at Bowman Field.

Churches

There are some 200 churches, representing nearly all creeds in Louisville. The principal denominations are the Baptists, the Methodists, the Presbyterians, the Christians, the Episcopalians, the Catholics and the Lutherans but there are also Unitarians, Evangelists, Jews and those who call themselves, Non-sectarians, Scientists, Seventh-Day Adventists, Social Settlement, Spiritualism, Swedenborgians, United Brethren and Theosophists. Some of the Houses of worship, like the Cathedral of the Assumption, the Warren Memorial, the Third Avenue Baptist Church and Fourth Street Christian are fine specimens of ecclesiastical architecture and capable of seating large congregations.

Social Advancement

Many early planters who later became associated with the life of the city were large slave owners and the residents of Louisville kept house servants who, after the manner of the time, assumed the family name. This transplanted Negro stock is the foundation of the city's present Negro life and culture. Despite his background of decades of slavery the Negro in Louisville, has adapted himself remarkably well to the environment of freedom. Illiteracy has dropped from about 96% in 1865 to a percentage well only slightly above the whites. Illiterates, white and Negro, reported by the United States census reached a low 2.2. The first free public library for Negroes, with Negro attendants, was opened in 1905 as a branch of the city public library. Louisville is the only city in the State that has two Carnegie branch buildings for Negro readers. Local Negroes have a complete system of primary and secondary schools in addition to the Louisville Municipal College—part of the University of Louisville. The U. S. census recorded that 45.6% of all Negro families, are home owners in Louisville. Negro neighborhoods have their own stores, hotels, restaurants, newspaper publishing houses, and theaters. The voting power of the City's 47,354 Negro population is a huge factor in the progress of the race in Louisville.

Education

The University of Louisville is an accredited, co-educational institution. It is located on five separate campuses in Louisville and is under public control. The University is the oldest municipal school in America. Although it was chartered as the Louisville Collegiate Institute by an act of the city council in 1798, for a medical school, instruction did not begin until 1837. The University of Louisville, chartered in 1847, absorbed the college's academic department. Today some scholarship help is available but more than half of the students earn part of their expenses. Residential facilities are extremely limited however and though there are fraternities and sororities on the campus, they do not provide living quarters for out-of-town students, who are dependent mainly on accommodations outside the college.

Parks

Louisville's parks ring the city in a loose half-circle and include Iroquois, Cherokee, Seneca and Shawnee. Cherokee, is a beautiful new park built exclusively for Louisville's Negro residents and tourists. It is located on Kentucky Lake near Eggner's Ferry Bridge, the route by which U. S. 68 crosses the lake. Louisville's parks are individually typical of the Kentucky Bluegrass country, the Kentucky Knobs, and English meadowlands and are all noted for their charm. Numerous smaller parks add to the City's recreational facilities which include golf courses, 84 tennis courts, 4 swimming pools, 34 baseball diamonds, 12 playgrounds with an organized time progress for all ages, an open-air theatre for theatricals and pageants, numerous picnic areas and 48 miles of park drives and parkways and bridle paths.

Monuments

There are a number of interesting monuments in and near Louisville. On Browsboro Road are the tomb of monument to Zachary Taylor, 12th president of the United States. The Confederate monument is at 3rd and Shipp Streets. In front of the Courthouse is the Jefferson monument. There are Statues of Lincoln and George D. Prentice in Library Place. A statue of Daniel Boone is in Cherokee Park and one of General John B. Castleman on Cherokee Parkway. In the Courthouse is a statue of Henry Clay. A granite monument at Seventh and Main streets marks the site of Fort Nelson.

The Kentucky Derby

The famous Blue grass of Kentucky derives its name from the bluish hue imparted to the landscape by the color of the seed vessels of the grass which lies like a soft, thick mat on the undulating surface of the hills and dales.

This exceptionally luxuriant vegetation which marks the country-side nourishes the thoroughbred horses whose reputation for speed and beauty are world-wide.

Horses and horse farms probably rank as the number one Tourist attraction because horse-racing is by all odds Louisville's most exciting sport. The spring and fall meets provide something to see and add an extra fillip to conversation during the 29 days of racing each year, but the Kentucky Derby is America's foremost horse-racing classic.

Colonel Lewis M. Clark, a prominent local sportsman went to England in 1872 and there, after viewing the Epsom Derby formulated the idea of inaugurating a race of like nature in Louisville. He possessed a strong inclination for entertaining and upon his return to America transformed his living quarters at Churchill Downs into a clubhouse. There, he elegantly displayed the celebrated hospitality of the South to his guests which through the ensuing generations still has a compelling appeal for all levels of American society.

The first Derby was run on the seventeenth of May 1875 and was the subject of much comment even from New York papers. They reported a crowd of 10,000 spectators and gave special emphasis to the "dazzling array of feminine loveliness." The Derby had its ups and downs, its trials and tribulations during succeeding years but gradually through reorganization and good management under the direction of Colonel Matt Winn, it achieved recognition as one of the richest as well as the most romantic stake race in the world.

For days before the annual event all masculine talk in Louisville centers around the condition of the horses, the possibility of rain and the betting

CHURCHILL DOWNS — The Downs is the home of the world famous and historic Kentucky Derby which has been an outstanding event since 1875. The attendance tops the 100,000 mark. The track, located at South Fourth Street and Central Avenue, is a one mile oval with a quarter-mile chute. Greatest crowd in Kentucky Derby history witnessed the 77th running of the classic in 1951, won by Count Turf. This photo shows the great crowd as the horses rounded the first turn.

Calumet Horse Farm, Lexington, Ky.

odds, while feminine chatter concerns itself with arriving guests, food selections for traditional Derby breakfasts and of course, the eternal question and selection of clothes for the big day.

Highways entering the City from all over the U. S. carry a steadily increasing number of automobiles and buses into the downtown area during Derby week, and Louisville becomes the most feverish city in the nation. Hotels are "all out". The streets teem with thousands of hysterical townspeople and visitors. A kind of craziness afflicts people so that even the Kentucky absentee is likely to glue his ear to the radio, first having made sure that there are plenty of refreshments on hand.

Notable and nobodies mingle, touts and tycoons, owners and swipers all beat inwardly to an excitement that no one can adequately describe. It is a horse race, fashion show, spring festival mob. 70,000 people pack the stands, bleachers and infield at Churchill Downs. The crowd is so thick that many are prevented from catching more than a glimpse of the classic Run of the Roses. It is interesting to note that despite this inconvenience no one leaves his position until the start and finish of the race, which in slightly more than two minutes, is recorded. They then join the thousands at Churchill Downs and elsewhere in cheers of appreciation for the winner and immediately commence anticipation proceedings for next year's "Darby".

Time has not dimmed the ardent desire of the Kentucky Derby's originator nor has it reduced the thrills, the fire, and the hospitality which it creates, but rather has contributed to the splendor and glory of one of America's great traditions . . . Democracy! The Kentucky Derby is a spectacle indeed; a human spectacle it would be difficult, if not impossible to duplicate.

The myths in which Louisvillians find comfort are the myths of fast horses, good whiskey, juleps, old retainers, and leisurely graces beneath ancestral porticos. These are myths only as the facts are extended and exaggerated, for tradition has its ancient lovers in Louisville and the manored Bluegrass. Louisville's gracious living is seriously cultivated as a pleasant combination of good manners, warm hospitality and a relaxed friendly enjoyment of life. Women and men honor the ways of ladies and gentlemen and rich warm anecdotes spill out over coffee or bourbon. It is relaxation, ease, and escape. At its best it is manners without rigidity. It is hospitality without calculation. In part of it is worshipful of ancestors and the great gone days, or if it is immediate and fresh, all of it is beguiling, because Louisville the Gateway City, enjoys solid comfort and solid success!

MOUNTAINS SEASHORE COUNTRY

The GREEN BOOK Vacation Guide

Introduction . . .

To assist you in planning your vacation to help make it a better, more enjoyable holiday than it has ever been, this section is dedicated.

Choose the Vacation which most perfectly matches your mood and pocket-book. By listing the names and addresses of the various resorts, it is easy to write and secure your reservations. Where no address is supplied, write to the city mentioned during the summer months.

This year make it a grand and glorious vacation and use this booklet to help you to decide where you would like to go.

Our Vacation Reservation Service will be ready each year to make your reservation from the places advertised.

Our advertisers are ready and willing to give you the best there is, to make you comfortable—to see to it that you have an enjoyable time, so that you may return from your vacation feeling fit for your job.

To select the perfect place in which to spend your vacation, and to get the most out of your stay, it is suggested that you:

Select the state that you wish most to visit.

Make your reservations far enough in advance through VICTOR H. GREEN & Co. to be sure that you can be accommodated.

IF YOU'RE FROM MISSOURI READ THIS

The PROVEN way to PROFITS in the
TRAVEL FIELD

We like to meet a 'GREEN BOOK' advertising prospect who is "FROM MISSOURI"—who says, "I know that this guide is read and used by over 225,000 people for travel information, also that they spend annually $112,500,000. I also now that you conduct an elaborate advertising program to reach them at home. BUT — what about RESULTS?"

You will find on looking through our pages hundreds of advertisers who have been with us ever since our first publication, others from five to ten years. New advertisers come in on the recommendation of others because they have been getting results. Continuous advertising gets results at such an amazingly low cost, that you can't afford to be out of "THE GREEN BOOK" 's advertising pages another year, to get results and added profits to your business.
