THE Negro Motorist GREEN BOOK

INTRODUCTION

The idea of "The Green Book" is to give the Motorist and tourist a Guide not only of the Hotels and Tourist Homes in all of the large cities, but other classifications that will be found useful wherever he may be. Also facts and information that the Negro Motorist can use and depend upon.

There are thousands of places that the public doesn't know about and aren't listed. Perhaps you might know of some? If so, send in their names and addresses and the kind of business, so that we might pass it along to the rest of your fellow Motorists.

You will find it handy on your travels, whether at home or in some other state, and is up to date. Each year we are compiling new lists as some of these places move, or go out of business and new business places are started giving added employment to members of our race.

When you are traveling mention "The Green Book" so as to let these people know just how you found out about their place of business. If they haven't heard about This Guide, tell them to get in touch with us.

If this Guide is useful, let us know, if not tell us also, as we appreciate your criticisms.

If any errors are found, kindly notify the publishers so that they can be corrected in the next issue.

EXPLANATION

No travel guide is complete with the multitude of business places that are unheard of. The principal value is its completeness for which reason we are endeavoring to make this guide actually the most complete possible.

We have given you a selection of listings that you might choose from, under no circumstances do these listings imply that the place is recommended.

The business classifications listed have been arranged under the different cities and towns, so that one won't have any trouble finding what they want.

MONEY FOR NEGRO COLLEGES

This year more than ever we must see to it that our colleges are prepared to carry a maximum load of work, and ready to do it well. One group of colleges deserves special attention in this respect: the institutions that devote themselves to education of the Negro. Under the leadership of the United Negro College Fund thirty-three of these private colleges are beginning a campaign for $1,300,000. John D. Rockefeller Jr. is chairman of the advisory committee for this third annual fund drive, and a number of other prominent men and women have interested themselves in the cause.

The need for full subscription is more pressing this year because of the unusual burden thrown on all educational facilities by the returning veteran. The Negro played an important and often heroic part in the war. He shared the mud, the danger, the sweat and the tears. Now he has the right to continue his interrupted education if he wants to do so. Many college doors will be closed to him, and to others regardless of race, color or creed, simply because there are too many returning veterans to be cared for at once in the colleges of their choice. But we cannot allow these thirty-three Negro private colleges to turn away any applicant because they lack funds, or to curtail their programs because of it.

The educated Negro was once a rarity. His numbers are increasing year by year, and his contributions to the arts, science and education steadily gain a wider and juster recognition for his abilities. From these we all gain, regardless of color. And, as we mutually put a proper, unprejudiced estimate on the contributions of all races to the common good, we move surely closer to the goal of living together in harmony.

Negro Schools and Colleges in the United States

Just a few pages ahead you will find a list of Negro schools and colleges in the United States.

As you visit the various states you will have a splendid opportunity of visiting the great educational centers, where students receive a sound, enlightened humanistic education and where they are prepared for life with a fine linguistic equipment, a trained ability to examine facts critically, a sharpened and heightened sensibility to values, a developed capacity for historical and philosophical reflection, and as a culminating result of all these disciplines, an enhanced capacity for reflective decision and action.

Take time out to read or to see these great homes of learning where the young folks of today and tomorrow are having their characters moulded. Plan for the future of your children so that in time to come they will face life with a fine equipment. Let us not forget that with this question of schools the whole of education is bound up, for the greatest thought of mankind is in books and the greatest living teachers are in our schools and colleges in the United States.

Not only Happy Motoring

Say the ESSO Special Representatives

Editors Note:-The following article is as nearly as is possible, a reproduction of a discussion between Wendall P. Alston and James A. Jackson, both Special Representatives of the Esso Marketers.

JAMES A. JACKSON, the senior has attempted to reproduce his reactions to the book and its field of usefulness, by reminiscing a bit about his early travels. In the pursuit of a livelihood since the dawn of the century, Mr. Jackson has covered a lot of territory. He has actually visited 1997 towns and cities in the United States and on several trips abroad has been in Nineteen foreign countries. He has been in so many communities in America as to be quite at home in most of them, because of his frequent visits, as time went on.

His present position, held for the past twelve years, after seven years in the U. S. Dept. of Commerce and six with the Billboard, a theatrical magazine is with the Public Relations Department of the Standard Oil Co. and its affiliated companies. Mr. W. P. Alston has for the past two years been his traveling companion, and his potential successor. Together they go about to the extent of around 20,000 miles per year.

But let them tell their own story:-

When this article reaches print in the 1947 issue of the Green Book, the authors of this little brochure will be wandering down in Louisiana, and Arkansas; and in fact one of us will have been across the border and into Texas. For about six weeks beginning right after Xmas, we will be on a trip of more than three thousand miles, involving fourteen stops in each state.

Both of us are experienced travellers and one is especially fortified with contacts in many towns and cities which he has been visiting at intervals for, in some instances, more than forty years. The gray headed member of the team, whose experiences indicate his age, but whose energy and will to get about this and other countries, seems to be undiminished.

Of course, like all old codgers, he is inclined to reminisce at almost any opportunity. Talk of the Green Book and mention of comparisons since its first publication a scant half dozen years ago, has just set him off.

"Gee" said he, "If there had been any such publication as this when I started travelling 'way back in the Nineties, I would have missed a lot of anxieties, worries and saved a lot of mental energy which, had it been conserved and used solely to the advancement of the business interests for which I traveled, my years "on the road" might have been concluded long ago, with enough savings to permit my living a life of peace and quiet, now that I am becoming an old codger."

JAMES A. JACKSON (SEATED) AND WENDEL P. ALSTON, SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVES OF THE ESSO MARKETERS IN THEIR NEW YORK OFFICE.

Of course, he could not be stopped traveling any more than one could stop him from talking about "Back when;" but make no mistake about his yarns, they are factual experiences and one, by one, as we go about, somewhere we encounter people familiar with the incident, or incidents, about which he has talked at sometime or another.

"When I first started jumping from place to place, just like white commercial travellers have been doing for time immemorial" he continued; the folk in many, many places looked with fear and doubt upon the traveling man from beyond the borders of their own county. In like manner, I, said he "wondered if my bags were safe, and if the bed I acquired for the night would be mine alone; or if I would have the night companions such as those for which D. D. T. has been created."

Hotels, such as they were had been designed solely as a place for the too inebriated man to occupy rather than to go home to an angry spouse in his unfortunate condition, according to the elder of this team. At other places, the doors were innocent of locks; and much of the equipment for bathrooms, such as are common place today, were unknown where Negro travellers might stop. It seems that the major bit of bathroom equipment could be found anywhere from fifty to a hundred feet down the yard and on the way, a grape arbor afforded the only shelter from storm.

Slowly the more modern hotels conducted for our patronage came into being during the past four or five decades, and as slowly, or even more slowly, have the minds of the owners and managers of these improved institutions of comfort and service, realized that to obtain patronage, the Negroes of the country must be informed of their existence.

How much nicer it is today, when one in contemplating a trip by train, motor or plane, is able to have determined in advance the places he may stop at while in the different communities; and how much more is the peace of mind of the traveller; and of his family and associates left at home, knowing that in emergency, just where one may be found.

I believe the Green Book was created in response to growing auto tourist business that would support it. However, what difference does it make to the traveller, or to the hotel and tourist home keeper, about what means of travel may be involved. The traveller needs a "home away from home" to the profit of those who make such homes available.

Just in case some of the Green Book readers may identify us from either the pictures or recognize the owner of the gray head from his talk as quoted here, Jack reminds the editor that "I am broad minded enough to want the traveler by train and plane to enjoy their stops anywhere just the same as if they had traveled by car. I am broad minded that way: and besides, Planes use petroleum products for motive power, so do a lot of railway engines, and all of them have to have lubrication, so my employer is not being cheated too badly, not enough to warrant them having an objection to all travelling colored people being able to obtain some degree of peace and comfort when they go away from home regardless of how they travel.

They're nice that way, therefore those who may be motoring may express their gratitude to Mr. Green for making possible the serenity of the trip; and insure themselves of Happy motoring by using Esso products while on tour, thereby adding to the writers a degree of Job insurance and enhance the social security of our families as they enjoy Happy motoring with ESSO.

GENERAL MOTORS CARS

At the time our guide went to press the 1947 Models of General Motors Cars had not been announced.

CHEVROLET

The new Chevrolet uses the valve-in-head Thrift-Master engine famous for its rare combination of economy and performance. This engine extracts more power from a given quantity of fuel than do other types of engines of the same displacement. Durability and ease of servicing also are important advantages of the valve-in-head construction.

Chevrolet alone, among the lowest-priced cars, has the famous Body by Fisher and all that it provides in styling, safety comfort, luxury, and durability. A distinctive feature of this body is its steel construction. The thoroughly reinforced cowl, side, rear, and floor panels and Turret Top are welded to form an all-steel unit of tremendous strength.

Still another Chevrolet feature is a vacuum cylinder which does nearly all of the gear shifting work. All the driver has to do is move the lever and the lever works so easy that you can move it with your forefinger without taking your hand off the steering wheel. You shift the gears but not your grip.

PONTIAC

Your first impression of the big, new Pontiac is that here is a car of outstanding beauty. Its clean, sweeping lines accentuate its length and size. Every detail of design adds to its stunning beauty. But its extra value is even more evident when you open the wide doors and get a glimpse of the luxurious interior. Here again, every detail of appointment adds up to comfort and luxury unmatched in its price class, and gives you the beauty of custom-type appointments at low cost.

Pontiac interiors are roomy, comfortable and in trim good taste. Soft, pleasing colors and smart hardware combine with plenty of elbow and headroom to add to passenger comfort. Upholstery is rich and luxurious. Ash trays and built-in arm rests are another "plus value" feature of all Pontiac models.

Pontiac's reputation for trouble-free performance is the result of advanced engineering and good craftsmanship. From drawing board to assembly line, Pontiac is designed and built to give mile after mile of trouble-free, economical performance, as the experience of owners has proved over and over again.

Many Pontiacs have been driven 100,000 miles and more with unbelievably little care and expense. New mechanical improvements combined with scores of time-proved features prove that in operating economy and dependability the 1946 Pontiac brings new perfection to its price class.

Oldsmobile "98" 4 Door Sedan

OLDSMOBILE

Ever since the days of the "Curved Dash Runabout," Oldsmobile has been famous for combining new ideas with proved features . . . in the right proportion to create a fine automobile. This tradition is carried out in the new Oldsmobiles.

Yet it takes the experience of actually driving the Oldsmobile to gain a real appreciation of how it combines many new improvements—in engine and body and chassis—with proved quality features and basic soundness of design. Add to these advantages the New Hydra-Matic Drive—the famous General Motors feature that gives you fully automatic gear-shifting and eliminates the clutch pedal entirely.

Built for the owner who wants quality construction plus outstanding economy, the Oldsmobile Special is a roomy, roadworthy automobile, offering many unusual extra-value features. The 1946 Oldsmobile Special "66" is 204 inches long overall—a full 17 feet from bumper to bumper. Its wheelbase is 119 inches. Its precision-balanced Fire-Power Engine delivers 100 horsepower. And this fine economy car is a true Oldsmobile through and through—in styling, in engineering, and in every detail of construction.

The Custom 8 Cruiser is truly the finest Oldsmobile ever built, a car for the owner who demands the finest in styling, in comfort, and in performance. It is a big impressive-looking car, 18 feet long from bumper to bumper, with a wheelbase of 127 inches. It is a modern car, with floors so low that running boards are not needed, and with bodies that are wider than they are high. It is a luxurious car, with custom-quality appointments and DeLuxe equipment throughout. And this fine big Oldsmobile is so perfectly balanced that it is one of the easiest-handling cars on the road. Beneath its broad hood is a 110-horsepower "Straight 8" Engine, with outstanding new features that contribute to new standards of smoothness and performance.

BUICK

Buick's line includes the Special, Series 40; the Super, Series 50; and the Roadmaster, Series 70. Here we picture the interior of Model 51, the sleek, clean-lined four-door SUPER sedan.

In many instances in this 1946 Buick Fireball valve-in-head engine, parts are held to closer tolerances than in precision power plants of the air.

There's a closer fit between the pistons and the cylinder walls than in an aircraft engine. There's quieter action because of closer fits in the valve mechanism.

Connecting rods ride on crankshaft bearings more closely fitted to journals. Oil pump gears mesh more precisely. Camshaft bearings meet closer standards of fit.

This all means extra fine, smooth performance and longer engine life. And this meticulous matching is only part of the whole Buick engine story.

There is the valve-in-head principle with the Dynaflash combustion chamber which rolls the fuel into a power-packed charge, squeezes it into a flattened ball so that it lets go with a super-stout wallop.

Yes, this Buick Fireball straight-eight for 1946 is a great engine. More brilliantly agile, more frugal with fuel and oil, and definitely proof that "When Better Automobiles Are Built, Buick Will Build Them."

CADILLAC

First among automobile companies, Cadillac was singled out by the government for war production. During those war years when no civilian cars were produced, Cadillac's precision workmanship continued uninterrupted . . . the Cadillac engine and transmission assembly lines never stopped. Cadillac's contribution to Victory remained, to a large extent, in the familiar realm of automotive-type production.

Naturally, automotive progress went far ahead at Cadillac. Over 50,000 of the famous Cadillac V-type engines and Hydra-Matic transmissions went into tanks and other motorized weapons . . . met the grueling tests of the battlefields . . . to emerge toughened and hardened to new standards of efficiency and dependability. Their development was far greater than would have been possible during four peace-time years.

This new mechanical perfection of engine and Hydra-Matic transmission is but one reflection of how Cadillac is able to resume fine car production with the most advanced new cars in its distinguished history . . . why the new, Cadillac is the greatest of all time, improved even beyond expectations.

IN PATRONIZING THESE PLACES

This is Cadillac's 62 Model

In this basic mechanical improvement alone is the assurance that Cadillac—whose leadership long ago established its cars as "Standard of the World"—again today is creating fine cars which advance comfort, luxury and automotive performance to a new, far higher standard.

Facts on Future Automotive Design

APPEARANCE

Henry Ford II has said that new cars, meaning the 1947 models, will be "evolutionary" and not "revolutionary." There won't be any radical changes although the '47 models will certainly feature more changes than any previous models in company history. In general, however, the trend is toward smoother, aerodynamically clean lines.

RIDE

Cars of the future will provide progressively better rides. Possibilities for suspension include: torsion bars, rubber, air, oil, conventional and coil spring arrangements. Whatever is used, the motorist can count on getting an increasingly smoother ride from his motor car.

TIRES

According to Mr. James, natural rubber tires should not be counted out. There is much to recommend them. At the present time, they are not only cheaper, but easier on gasoline. Experiments show that they enable the motorist to get at least an extra mile to the gallon.

There is no evidence that synthetic tires, at present, last longer than the natural product.

Big synthetic winner is the butyl rubber inner tube. Due to less porosity they have much better air retention properties.

ENGINES

Mr. James feels that the conventional, reciprocating engine is still the best power source available for the present automobile. He sees lighter, more compact engines creating far greater horsepower for a given displacement. He is not so sure compressions will go much higher. Higher compressions, he says, impose greater strains on bearings, create higher temperatures, result in a "high strung" or temperamental engine in frequent need of attention.

He says there is a possibility the same end—greater horsepower for a given displacement and weight—may be achieved by the use of superchargers.

According to Mr. James, gas turbines as power plants for "tomorrow's" automobiles leave much to be desired—at least in their present stage of development. He says they have a bright future in the heavy power plant field, i. e. airplanes, sea-going vessels, trains and special power plants requiring 1,000 or more horsepower.

Advantages of the gas turbine are: compactness, fewer-moving parts, low initial cost and weight, ability to use low volatile fuels. Chief disadvantages are: Higher fuel consumption and their inability, in the present state of development, to be produced satisfactorily as small power units.

TRANSMISSIONS

Mr. James says that "easier to shift" transmissions are on their way. Clutch pedals are likely to disappear on all models in the near future. He is not sure that the gear shift lever will disappear entirely, although smaller, easier-to-manage levers are definitely in the picture. The matter of selectivity is something motorists must decide. Do they want a transmission that is fully automatic or do they want to exercise some choice in the matter? Semi-automatic and fully automatic transmissions are already a reality.

FUELS

The cars of the future will determine the kind of fuel we get according to Mr. James. He points out that a car lasts seven years; a fuel only seven weeks from refinery to engine.

LIGHT METAL AND PLASTICS

There is little likelihood of an aluminum, magnesium or all plastic automobile in the future, says Mr. James. Chief trouble with aluminum is that it is too expensive. It now costs from 15 to 16 cents a pound. The industry will get interested when it gets down to 4 or 5 cents. This seems unlikely since it takes two cents of electricity to make a pound of the meat.

On the other hand the present cost of steel is around 2 cents a pound.

Fabricating problems of aluminum could be licked, Mr. James believes. It's a matter of basic cost that is the stumbling block.

The plastics picture is the same as aluminum or magnesium. Basic costs are high, and in addition there is a higher cost of fabrication to consider.

REAR ENGINE DRIVE AND FRONT ENGINE DRIVE

Prme advantages of either of these arrangements, Mr. James says, is that both permit lower floors. This is an important design consideration. He forsees considerable experimentation with both in the near future.

A secondary advantage of the rear engine design, one not possessed by the front drive, is improved visibility.

Problems of rear engine desgns are: weight distribution difficulties and cooling.

AIR CONDITIONING

There is a good chance that motor cars in the near future may feature controlled year-around temperature, obviating the necessity for opening the windows at any time. Humidity, too, will be controlled, eliminating interior fogging.

THE FORD CAR

At the time our guide went to press the 1947 Ford Motors Cars had not been announced.

Ford's New Sportsman's Convertible

Seven reasons why the Ford Motor Company's new Sportsman's Convertible combines custom craftsmanship with production cost are shown here.

Outstanding feature of the Sportsman's convertible is the use of wood panels on a steel frame, combining strength with station wagon appeal.

Examining the new model at Dearborn are seven of the nation's outstanding custom automobile designers, all of whom have recently joined Ford's expanded styling department. They are, left to right:

John F. Dobben, formerly with J. B. Judkins Company, Merrimac, Mass., builders of custom bodies for Lincoln, Pierce-Arrow, Packard, Deusenberg, and other luxury cars. He designed special bodies for Tom Mix, W. C. Fields and other screen notables.

Tom Hibbard, formerly of Hibbard and Darrin, Paris France. Hibbard's firm built custom bodies for Rolls Royce, Packard, Lincoln, Mercedes, Renault, Hispano Suiza, Pierce-Arrow, Isotta-Frachinni and other famed con-Deusenberg for ex-King Alfonso of Spain.

Martin Regitko, formerly with the Willoughby Company of Utica, N. Y., custom body builders for Lincoln, Rolls Royce, Deusenberg and others. He helped design special cars for presidents including Coolidge and Hoover. All were built on Lincoln chassis.

George Tasman, designer for Locke & Company, and J. S. Inkskip, both of New York. The latter was agent for Rolls Royce and Bentley. He has designed scores of custom bodies.

Herman Brunn, son and partner of Herman A. Brunn, of Brunn & Company, Buffalo. He was stylist and designer for his father and later for Kellner and Company, Paris France. He once designed an all-white ceremonial car with solid gold trim for the Shah of Iran.

Victor Lang, formerly with Brunn and Company, custom body builders for Lincoln, Pierce-Arrow, Rolls Royce and other. He designed a special Lincoln body on a 150-inch ambulance chassis for the late President Roosevelt. The car now is being used by President Truman.

Paul Weichbrodt, formerly with Willoughby and Brunn of Utica, N. Y., custom body designers for many notables, including numerous film stars.

The 1946 Ford is not a "stop-gap" model hurriedly produced but is the result of four years of research and production know-how, Ford Motor Company officials said today.

The 1946 Ford is designed and built without compromise of traditional Ford quality in workmanship and material. It contains more mechanical improvements than were included in any previous year to year model.

Outstanding features of the car are: a more powerful engine, better performance, longer life, improved economy and a better ride.

The new V-8 engine develops 100 horsepower, making it the most powerful Ford in the history of the company. Pre-war Fords were equipped with V-8 engines developing 90 horsepower.

The chief exterior change is a newly designed radiator grille. The louvres are fewer in number and larger. They extend horizontally from fender to fender, enhancing a lower, broader appearance.

Other exterior changes include a new hood ornament and a more elaborate rear deck ornamentation. In addition a complete line of colors will be available in the long-wearing, durable Ford synthetic enamel paints.

Luxury and eye-appeal are accentuated in the interiors. Instrumentation is generally the same, but the styling and color schemes of the instrument panel are new.

Upholstery will be available in mohair-broadcloth of several shades. Imitation wood grain panels have given way to subdued panels that blend into the general interior color scheme.

Durable, eye-appealing art-leather decorates the door panels and interior trim.

An improved ride and better roadability, especially at high speeds in cross winds or on curves is assured by the use of improved-type springs and shock absorbers and the addition of a rear-end sway bar.

The thickness of the spring leaves has been reduced and their number increased.

Shock absorbers have improved oil seals to prevent loss of fluid.

The brakes also have received considerable attention. They are new and require less pedal pressure. They are easier to adjust and feature a floating type shoe that seats itself.

A Lincoln-type hand brake lever has been adopted as standard equipment on all Ford Models.

Radiator brackets have been redesigned to prevent radiator corners from breaking and causing leakage. In addition, the hood latch has been changed to a stamping to eliminate possibility of breakage.

Other improvements are: the use of self-locking nuts wherever possible to eliminate the necessity for using cotter pins; a tool bag that is made from artificial leather in place of burlap, and a car jack of ratchet type design. The latter replaces the friction type formerly used.

Improved cooling has been achieved by the adoption of a new radiator pressure cap that maintains a constant pressure of five pounds inside the radiator. Evaporation is reduced and winter anti-freeze preserved. Ford is first in the low-priced field to incorporate this feature in regular production.

Aluminum pistons equipped with four rings will be standard on all models. This, coupled with an improved rear main bearing seal, will effect further economies in oil consumption and prevent loss.

A new standard in fuel economy has been achieved despite an increase in horsepower. Higher engine compression, a change in the engine-axle ratio and the adoption of a new carburetor has made this possible.

Longer life for the camshaft timing gear has been obtained by changing over to aluminum.

IN PATRONIZING THESE PLACES

A newly designed distributor virtually eliminates possibility of motor interference or stoppage resulting from condensation or water seepage. The use of oil repellent and long lasting Neoprene covering for ignition wires has eliminated another troublesome feature of pre-war motoring.

All Ford models will feature oil bath air and oil cleaners as standard equipment, wartime use of these accessories having demonstrated their value in prolonging engine life.

Valves on the new engines have been moved outward from the cylinders permitting improved water jacketing and better cooling. Intake and exhaust valves have been equipped with hardened, heat-resisting alloy steel inserts to save the cost of adjustments and regrinding. Using inserts for both intake and exhaust valves is an exclusive Ford feature.

Cylinder block heads for new V-8 engines have been made interchangeable, requiring a change in gasket design.

Possibility of over heating under adverse conditions has been dealt another blow by the development of a new oil pump that circulates a greater volume of oil through the engine lubrication system at a higher pressure.

Valve springs are shot-peened and rust proofed for longer life. The main leaf on each spring is also shot-peened for added strength.

As in the past, sturdy, high-torque Ford 6-cylinder engines will be available for those who prefer the in-line type.

A number of changes have been made in this rugged engine, thousands of which power various military vehicles.

Like the V-8, the new 6-cylinder engine features aluminum pistons and 4 rings for greater oil economy, the new improved distributor, oil filter and oil filtered air cleaner. It also has shot-peened and rust-proofed valve springs and a number of other features incorporated on the larger engine.

In addition new front motor supports have been added. These are made from Neoprene, a synthetic product that is unaffected by oil.

The exhaust manifold has been redesigned so that it is removed far enough from the fuel pump to eliminate possibility of vapor lock.

General engine performance of the Ford 6 has been stepped up by the use of a new, higher lift cam. It develops 90 horsepower at 3300 rpm.

THE 1946 MERCURY

DETROIT, Mich.—The 1946 Mercury, according to Frank J. Denney, general sales manager for the Lincoln-Mercury Division of the Ford Motor Company, has a heavier, lower and wider appearance, resulting from a wider hood and re-designed front grille.

The new grille consists of die-cast, vertical louvres extending across the front. The lines of the hood ornament also have been changed to connote fleetness and beauty.

1946 Mercury Two Door Sedan

Separate "Mercury" and "Eight" nameplates have been added, and mouldings have been widened all around the car to accentuate the length and low center of gravity.

The new Mercury is available in eight exterior colors, with harmonizing instrument panels, upholstery and trim.

Two distinctive interior treatments are used. One features gray-green broadcloth upholstery and a modernistic gray-green lacquered instrument panel with contrasting plastic trim. Doors are paneled with gray-green art leather.

The other interior features rust brown cord upholstery with a golden brown lacquered instrument panel and brown art leather paneling on the doors.

Engineering knowledge gained during research and production of wartime goods is reflected in the mechanical changes incorporated in the 1946 Mercury engine.

These include such outstanding features as tri-alloy bearings, crank-case ventilation, improved oil pump, four-ring aluminum pistons, and interchangeable cylinder heads.

Riding comfort in the new Mercury has been increased through redesigning of the springs. The spring leaves are thinner and their number has been increased.

A track bar has been added in the rear, to prevent "wander" on the road in high winds, and a floating-shoe brake has been developed. Brake pedal pressure is softer, increasing driving comfort.

The wheelbase is 118 inches.

Mr. Denney has announced that plans are progressing for establishment of an exclusive Mercury dealer organization, as well as separation of production facilities. Prior to the war, Mercury cars were merchandised largely through the Ford dealer organization.

Assembly locations for the post-war Mercury will include the three plants of the Lincoln Division—the Detroit Lincoln plant at Warren and Livernois, and the two new Lincoln-Mercury plants now under construction on the East and West coasts.

THE 1946 LINCOLN

Detroit, Mich.—The 1946 Lincoln was the first of the post-war luxury automobiles to be shown to the public in dealer showrooms throughout the nation.

According to Frank J. Denney, general sales manager, the new model retains the graceful lines first introduced to the quality field by Lincoln, but a number of improvements give the cars a larger and more luxurious appearance.

Exterior improvements include wider bumpers, to provide more protection for fenders, and completely new bumper guards, heavier at the top to prevent override and possible damage to fenders and grille.

The new grille, a massive die-casting with a quadrated pattern, gives the front a lower, broader appearance, and provision for built-in fog lights is a new safety feature that adds an attractive note as well.

Electrically operated hydraulic mechanism for raising and lowering windows is a standard feature on all 1946 Lincoln cars. This is more convenient and safer than the conventional mechanism, since the driver can, with the pressure of one finger, raise or lower either of the car's front windows at any time.

Mr. Denney said that, with new grilles, new bumpers, new color combinations, new rich upholstery, new hardware throughout, new panel instruments, new steering wheel and automatic window lifts, the new Lincoln is by all odds the most beautiful and finest automobile yet offered the American public.

Two models of the 1946 Lincoln are now in production, the four-door sedan and the club coupe, with other models to be added soon. The new Lincolns will be available in eight different exterior colors.

Prices for the 1946 Lincolns, as announced by OPA are:

F. O. B. Detroit—Club Coupe, $1,986.40; Club Coupe with custom interior, $2,112.28; Four-Door Sedan, $2,002.65 and Sedan with custom interior, $2,128.55. These prices include state and federal taxes, gasoline and oil.
